SEM-I, III AND V
GEOGRAPHY

Monthly Assessment test

Sem – I

Geography Honours

CC1

FM – 10

Attempt any one of the following

1. Describe different types of landforms produced by wind erosion with suitable diagrams. Give a short description on Bahada. (7 + 3 = 10)

Or

2. Explain the classification of Folds with suitable diagrams. Write is Rift Valley? (7 + 3 = 10)

Monthly Assessment test

Sem – III

Geography Honours

CC7

FM – 10

Attempt any one of the following

1. What are the advantages and disadvantages of simple random sampling? Give two advantages and disadvantages of mean. (7+3=10)

Or

2. What is the difference between absolute and relative measure of dispersion and give examples of each and state which is better and why? What is the relationship between mean, median and mode in a positively skewed frequency distribution? (7+3=10)

Monthly Assessment test

Sem – V

Geography Honours

DSE-A(3+7=10)

FM – 10

Attempt any one of the following

1. Define "Climate Change". State the general trend of climate change in recent century. (3+7=10)

Or

2. What is greenhouse effect? Explain the causes and effects of global warming on the environment. (3+7=10)

2) Folds are wave like bands that are formed by compressive and tensional forces coming from within the earth. Some of the folds are formed due to folds are - Himalayas, Andes etc. These are different parts of folds.

- Anticline
- Syncline
- Limb
- Axis
- Dip
- Strike
- Middle limb

The parts are:

(1) ANTICLINE: The upfolded structure formed in an fold is called the anticline of a fold.

(2) SYNCLINE: The downfolded structure is called syncline.

(3) LIMB: The 2 bands of a fold are limbs. The 2 limbs are joined by middle limb.

⑥ OVERTURNED FOLD :- When one limb rides over another limb is called Overturned fold.

✓ 5/2+

Rift Valley :- Rift Valley is a landform formed due to faulting of rocks or rock masses.

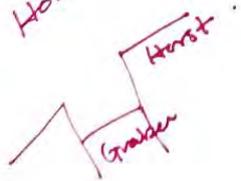

These are due to displacement of rock beds or due to depression. When due to extreme pressure, the part of the earth surface moves downward in direction it forms a valley shaped landform called Rift Valley. The smaller version of Rift Valley is Graben. ✗

Eg :- Rhine Valley is a Rift Valley. 1/2+

Graben → shifted downwards.
Horst → shifted upwards.

(vi) Open Fold: An open fold is a broad feature in which the limbs are dip at a gentle angle away from the crest of the fold.

vii) Close Fold: Gentle folds have an interlimb angle of between 180° & 120° open folds range from 120° to 70° close folds.

viii) Overturned Fold: In this fold one limb is turned over the another ~~one~~ limb. $1\frac{1}{2}+$

Rift Valley: A rift valley is a low land region that forms where earth's tectonic plates move apart or rift. This valley is found both on land & at the bottom of the ocean. Example - Mulwai in the Betul district of Madhya Pradesh in India. $2+$ choosing of the sample of the population because there is biasness is not present so the all diversities of the population has equal chance to choose as the sample. And because of the absence of the bias the true sample of the population can be occurs.

2. SIMPLICITY

Random sampling is the simplest type of sampling from all of the type. In this kind of the sampling because of the randomness there is no calculation and graphically and alphabetically arrangement of data. because of this it is so simple to compute the sample of the population and there is no complexity is founded in computing of sample by the form of simple random sampling. because of the simplicity we can take away of the population without putting to much effort. So the simplicity is the main and principle advantage of the simple random sampling.

DISADVANTAGES OF MEAN

Every coins have two sides so there is some disadvantage of mean is as follows.

1. Not able to show the exact result of the distribution.

2. Mean is not able to observe the whole distribution of the data set.

DSE - A (CLIMATE CHANGE: VULNERABILITY AND ADAPTATION)

Q-2.) GREEN HOUSE EFFECT - Green house effect is the process in which solar radiation comes from sun and the greenhouse gases present in the atmosphere trapped this solar energy ~~and~~ and makes the earth warm for sustain life.

When the solar energy comes from the sun it interacts with the ~~land~~ or ~~the~~ earth land or the surface. These lands traps the energy and keep the earth at normal temperature and some greenhouse gas like Carbon dioxide Methane, ozone, Nitrous oxide and chlorofluorocarbon present in the atmosphere ~~with~~ which traps the energy and keep it warm.

But due to human activities like burning of fossil fuel, agricultural land etc emits an increased ~~the~~ amount of greenhouse gas in the atmosphere. By the result of this, these gases absorbed more energy and the consequences are increase in temperature.

Green house is a glass of house in which many plants are grown by sun's energy. These houses are full of greenhouse gas which trap the energy and makes the temperature balanced.

1.) Rise in temperature - By the trapped of energy through greenhouse gases ~~the~~ makes the earth warm. Increase in the amount of ~~gases~~ greenhouse gases will increase the temperature of the earth. which increase global warming day by day.

2. Excess use of fossil fuels - In developed region people are using fossil fuel in high amount which cause the increase in greenhouse gases. These gases increase the temperature of the earth and also pollution.

3. Rise in sea level - Sea level is also rising due to increase in temperature which cause the change in ecosystem as the climate change.

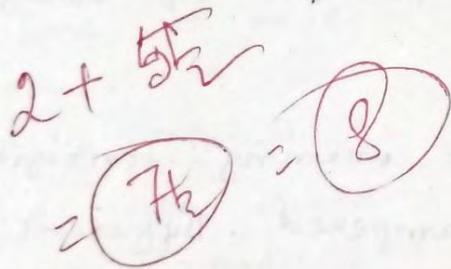

4.) Deforestation - now a days populations are increasing which causes the cutting of trees for residential areas. As the effect of this earth's temperature is rising, And amount of forest is also decreasing.

5.) Melting of glacier - As the greenhouse gases increase ~~the~~ heat is also rising which melts the glacier and the balance of water and land is disturbing which affect MEASURES - for the purpose of decreasing of global warming we have to stop or decrease using of fossil fuels which emits green house gases.

• Government ~~have~~ should have take initiate to stop or reduce / emitting green house gases.

If this condition is not stop then we have to face major disaster in ~~future~~ -

The Department of Geography is organising a One-Day Seminar on 'Understanding Hazard, Risk, Vulnerability and Disaster Management in India: Present Day Challenges' in collaboration with IQAC on 12th May 2023 in the college auditorium.

Programme Schedule:

Session 1:

Speaker: Dr. Anindya Basu, Asst. Prof, Diamond Harbour Women's University

Topic: 'In the Eye of the Storm: Debating Sustainability in Sundarban Biosphere Reserve'

Time: 11.00 am onwards

Break: 30 minutes

Session 2:

Speakers: Students of Semester VI Geography Hons

Topic: 'Understanding Hazard, Risk, Vulnerability and Disaster Management in India through Hazards Mapping using Geospatial Techniques'

Time: 1.00 pm onwards

All teachers, staff and students are invited to attend the seminar.

A2) A tribe consists of a group of individuals who share a common territory, ideals, values, norms and primitive ways of life. These tribes can be endogamous and/or exogamous. This generally differs from region to region. Some tribes even ~~some~~ permit acts of incest.

Tribes are generally disconnected from the urban society. They live on the resources of the region, which is very abundant in nature. They also have distinct terms or 'names' which they use to refer to each other.

They share a common ancestry too. They think that they all come from the same predecessor, which may or may not be true.

They share common bloodlines and ancestry within the tribe. (like families/groups that live together)

For examples, Nagas, Todas, Santhals, Khasis, etc. are some significant tribes. They generally live in the North eastern, central and southern parts of India.

A3) The Jajmani system is a way of life where the Jajmans or Jajmans perform ^{for the Kameens} Yajna, and the Kameens provide these Jajmans with various important services.

These services include barbers, shoe-makers, shepherds, etc.

It is the backbone of the rural economy in India.
Its characteristics are as follows:

a) Peace and contentment - Kameens don't have to worry about their sense of security, as Jajmans cannot function without their services and thus have to employ and pay them.

b) Payment in kind - Kameens are always paid in kind, rather than cash. This results in Kameens getting commodities (foodgrains, dead skins of animals, clothes, etc.) directly and also receive gifts from the Jajmans.

Answer 2

Karl Marx (1818-1883) studied the society in the economic aspect. He had stated that there are two types of mode of production.

He said He said - that economy and superstructure is co-related and dependent on each other.

Economy is the base of the structure and other variables such as laws, institution etc is the superstructure of the production.

For a complete and total output of a commodity, labour and tool are inter-dependent to each other. They are related; tools and machineries which are reliable ~~will~~ be used and relate to each are used to produce, and there are different factors of production such as, labour, economy, machinery and tools etc, which help in the production of goods and services.

Thus, is the mode of production and less regulated by the society. For eg: bondage labour, slavery

Though, this type of suicide would eventually perish over time was the thought of Durkheim.

Thus, is the types of suicide.

Topic- Discuss Sukumar Ray's social critique achieved under the garb of nonsense rhyme in Abol Tabol.

OA

Nonsense poetry, in Western Literature, has had a long and gradual evolution from the early 13th century to its maturity in the 19th century in the works of Edward Lear and Lewis Carroll. Literary nonsense, as a subgenre of children's literature, can operate at different levels. Scholars argue that literary nonsense is an interrogation of reality with children's literature being a tool of socialization, where nonsense exists for the sake of questioning the sense. It is a way of upsetting reality for the purpose of interrogating it. In India, children's literature through its subgenre of literary nonsense largely implies colonial undertones to expose the sociopolitical scenario of the colonial times, which turns out to be the most feasible form of camouflaging the protest against the colonial rule and exposure of the pseudo bourgeoisie Babu culture. In Bengali literature, Sukumar Ray's Abol Tabol, translated by Satyajit Ray himself, stands as an immortal work of nonsense literature with an incisive wit and vivid imagination. The presence of absurd and eccentric characters unobtrusively offers to the adult reader a parodic exposure to the socio-political issues of the time, particularly in the light of the colonial ideology and the strong resistance against it in the early 20th century. The poems illustrate the futility of human endeavour and the scorn it causes in the process in a comedic deliberation. Including an oblique satire, it becomes a masterpiece amongst the children's literature (literary nonsense) of the time, thus agreeing with the opinion of the 17th-century nonsense poet, John Taylor, who observed "For nonsense is rebellion and thy writing is nothing but rebellious, warres inciting." Although Trailakyanath Mukherjee had given his Bengali readers comedic aspects in his creation before Sukumar Ray, and Annadashankar Ray as well as Premendra Mitra had made their imprint in the post-Ray literary realm, they lacked Sukumar Ray's incisive sight into parodying the contemporary colonial culture and the deceit in it. Sukumar Ray grabbed on what Trailakyanath left unfinished, satirising the Babu culture imposed on the rising middle class by British imperialists and eventually by the colonisers themselves. In this way, his nonsense poetry becomes laden with anti-colonial ideas that float around in a shimmering haze beneath the garb of an apparently innocent nonsense poem. Ray, being interested in emphasising anti-colonial and educational techniques, likely authored children's literature in order to generate critical consciousness, particularly through questioning the function of reason.

Sukumar Ray's immortal creation Abol Tabol, an anthology of nonsense rhymes, translated by Satyajit Ray into English, which consists of 46 titled and 7 untitled short rhymes falling under the category of literary nonsense. Studies on Abol Tabol provide a clearer picture of Sukumar Ray's techniques in employing certain concepts and themes that add to the charisma of the masterpiece. Colonial India in Children's Literature by Supriya Goswami assesses the prevalence of the colonial influences in children's literature by several authors over a long span of time, which includes Sukumar Ray's Abol Tabol. This supports the fact that nonsense literature, as a sub-genre of children's literature, have always been the first pick for such satiric expressions. A larger detail about children's literature and its area of representation has been explored in Peter Hunt's book Understanding Children's Literature, which provides a wide range of array about the various aspects of children's literature, and addressed the theoretical questions and the most important approaches to the field. All the authors in this book share their implicit belief of children's literature, which is worth reading and pondering for the adults. Since Abol Tabol is concerned with the white's powerful subjugation and treatment of the Indians and the protest against it, a lot about such issues can be learned from Donnarae MacCann's book The White Supremacy in Children's Literature, which blends the literary, political, personal and institutional history to show the range of white supremacist ideology. This study reveals that adult and child cultures overlap in parallel with how books for adults, schools, churches and government agencies similarly embrace black identity, culture and intelligence shows that many children's stories have political, social and literary contexts. This book shows how the link between the socialization of children in the 19th century and their conservative tendencies predicted the neglect of social justice in American welfare policy in the 20th century. The Tenth Rasa: An Anthology of Indian nonsense by Michael Heyman provides the idea of the spirit of whimsy which is employed effectively in Ray's poems. This wonderful collection of poetry and prose has been expertly translated from seventeen languages of India. The writers create doorways to wonderfully creative worlds filled by unusual characters and magical animals, where only gibberish makes perfect sense. The tremendously hilarious compilations amuses the readers from start to finish, cracking with humour, wordplay and wild rhymes, and frequently revelling in utter nonsense. Other than this, Asmita Mukherjee's work To Laugh or not to laugh: An analysis of humour in Sukumar Ray's Abol Tabol provides clarity over the elements of parody, satire and other nonsensical elements that build up the inconclusiveness and linguistic play, enabling the poems to be enjoyed as a perfect example of 'nonsense'. Shinjini Sarkar's Sukumar Ray: The Power of words examines the politics of the time of Ray, which tried to parody the colonial dominance and the rising middle class that was growing at the moment. In similar context, the growth of nationalism through the concept of childhood in Indian literature has been studied by Sreemoyee Dasgupta in her Phd thesis paper Nationalism, Genre and Childhood in Colonial Indian Children's literature. All of these vividly puts forward a sneak peek into Ray's world of nonsense, and his methodology of implying tools of literary nonsense to portray severe ideas and notions.

Write an essay on the role and significance of Captain Haddock in Tintin in Tibet

Abstract

Tintin in Tibet was first published in Tintin magazine in the autumn of 1959. A passenger plane travelling to Europe, crashes into the Himalayas. It turns out that Tintin's young Chinese friend Chang was on board the aircraft. Tintin in Tibet (1960) is a story of pure friendship, without any of the usual villains: a tale of Tintin's desperate search to find his friend. The unusual narrative, which is much more introverted than those of other books in the Tintin series, tells the story that faith and hope are able to conquer all obstacles, and that pre-conceived judgements of others - in this case in regard to the yeti - are the fruit of ignorance.

Keywords

- Comic Relief
- Saviour
- Friendship
- Struggle
- Dream

Introduction

The book starts with Tintin holidaying in a resort in the French Alps along with Captain Haddock, Professor Calculus and Snowy. He gets a vision where he sees his friend Chang uttering his name for help. Later, after reading about a plane crash in the Himalayas and getting a letter from Chang, Tintin realises that Chang is indeed in danger as he was in that plane. Tintin rushes to help his friend and at last with the help of monks and local sherpas, he manages to rescue his friend.

➤ As a Popular Literature.

The story is complete and has an introduction, main action and culmination. Hence, from a cursory reading we can say Tintin In Tibet is a graphic novel. But there is more to unravel. What Tintin fights is his own fear, hesitations and the cruel environment. This makes Tintin In Tibet a distinguished story. The plot, thus, involves introspection, faith, power of friendship, death and even spirituality. We see his faith in his intuitions. However, the story lacks a subplot. It is rather

Abel Tabor takes us introduces us to different animals, people which takes us out of the strapping reality. In Abel Tabor there is an intentional lack of rationality as if it is not absolutely pertinent to say it is not absolutely absent. Sense and coherence are there in these but in a different definition. If we take a detail study of these poems with reference to socio-political context we get to know what Sukumar Reddy actually wants to convey the messages through his poems and in which manner he used to see his contemporary society and how critical of those who lacked nationalism and find pride in serving as slaves to the Britishers. In missing whiskers we find Boss Babu is happy with his assumed identity

They are @ losing their composure, uniqueness, individuality as they are trying to imitate the British. The relationship between lion and deer we see the essential dichotomy between the prey-predator relationship relationship. They are chasing behind the alien culture by disregarding their native culture. This is what Ray @ criticizes about his society

3) Tharkey is like a sherpa who assists Pinter and Captain Haddock throughout their perilous journey. Though he was quite hesitant to help Pinter as he too believes that Chang could be dead and also in the middle of the plot he leaves Pinter's assistance and went back but what insists him to come back is by seeing Pinter's indomitable spirit and courage and faith in friendship to get back his friend Chang. What strikes him that being a white man if Pinter could relentlessly search for Chang who is a yellow man like Tharkey. Why the Tharkey can't help them to succeed in their journey. While he comes back, he also saves the life of Pinter and Captain Haddock from falling from the mountain. Without Tharkey's assistance, Pinter could never have had saved his friend Chang.

Introduction

Tutoring is probably one of the oldest teaching methods. In ancient Greece, in the time of Plato and Socrates, the children of the wealthy were educated individually or in small groups by masters or tutors. During the Middle Ages the children of nobles and the wealthy continued receiving their education from tutors. When more formalised educational institutions became available, teachers started teaching, but tutors continued to play an important role in the learning process. In the past only the wealthy students had tutors. Today tutoring programs are widely available to students through their schools, churches, and community agencies as well as private tutorial services. Today, students at all levels receive tutoring to help them to master reading, math, chemistry, and physics.

Tutoring is private academic support, usually provided by an expert teacher; someone with deep knowledge or defined expertise in a particular subject or set of subjects.

A tutor, formally also called an academic tutor, is a person who provides assistance or tutelage to one or more people on certain subject areas or skills. The tutor spends a few hours on a daily, weekly, or monthly basis to transfer their expertise on the topic or skill to the student (also called a tutee). Tutoring can take place in different

Experience

As a teacher I gain experience, where my student not only learn more, as measured by standardised tests, He is also more likely to do better on other measures of success, such as school attendance.

Teaching has been the most intensive education of my life, and it has taught me many valuable lessons such as perseverance, teamwork, and patience. But the most ambitious of all of these lessons is that "learning never stops." At every age, you learn something new.

Teaching, in my perspective, is a task that requires you to study a lot and re-read previous material. While teaching, I had a lot of fun since, on the one hand, I gained experience and, on the other hand, the happiness I had from assisting my little ones could not be matched to any amount of money. The award I received is indescribable, and I will be eternally thankful.

~~News is a relative concept. Any things that is informative and noteworthy is a news.~~ 3EB2

1) News has no specific definition but is a relative concept. "Anything that is informative and noteworthy is a news". Concise Oxford dictionary. Once an American publisher Joseph Pulitzer ~~said~~ ^{before them} "Put it briefly ^{so} that can read it, clearly so that picture it, ^{picturequeetly} picturequeetly so they can remember it and accurately so they can be guided by its light."

2) Soft news has ^{all} the important elements of news as hard news. ~~but~~ it is treated in much lighter ways. Soft news involves flexible writing style, in which it described briefly in the intro ~~and~~ but witty and ironic in body. Human interest and ~~or~~ infotainment news falls under soft news story.

6) Penny press ~~is~~ ^{was} a tactic business strategy, in which news paper, ^{were sold} for only one cent. ~~the~~ Penny press was introduced in 1833. When Benjamin Day launched ~~the~~ first ~~as~~ The Sun, a ~~new~~ New York city newspaper for only one cent.

7) The degradation form of a journalism was known as yellow journalism. Yellow journalism has no soul. It did not follow any ethics of journalism. ~~best~~ News were distorted and exaggerated. It focused on the ^{high} drama of life, a cheap melodrama to increase the circulation. Yellow journalism was against the ethics of journalism.

4.) The Flesch formula was

$$RE = (206.835) \times (1.015 - ASL) - (8.95 - ASW)$$

RE = Readability ease

ASL = Total number of sentences

ASW = Total number of syllables

Q27 New media is a form of media in which information and news are disseminated through the internet, using computer networks. ~~But~~ ^{Although} any kind of new technology can be considered as new media, depending on the era when it was first introduced. For eg., TV was a new media in India in 1959, because no newer technology had been introduced at one time until the emergence of internet.

Q28 Digital media refers to the redistribution and dissemination of information and news events via digital platforms. For example, television, smartphones, etc. Digital media ~~helps in~~ accelerates the flow of information.

Q34 Information Society is an overworked expression which has been used to denote various other concepts. David Bell came up with concept of Information Society in the 1960s. Information Society can be defined as a society which is growing-high technology, ~~affluent~~ materially affluent service sector, where information, rather than raw material and ~~technology~~ energy, is the dominant technology.

4) Yes, Networked society is related to information society. Jan Van Dijk and Manuel Castells preferred to use the term 'Networked Society' instead of 'Information Society'. Van Dijk explained that the modern society is becoming a networked society, where the society is increasing organizing its relationships in the ~~modern~~ media networks. And, information society is a society where information is the most dominant technology. Thus, we can say that networked society is related to information society.

6) Hyperlocal journalism is the type of journalism where news and information events are covered at the smallest or local scale. For eg, a website only covers the news events of this ~~or~~ block of neighbourhood. Journalists who practice hyperlocal journalism often covers important news events that are not covered by large media companies.

BEAD HONOURS SEMESTER 1 INTERNAL EXAMINATION

Subject Name - Communicative English,
Full Marks - 5
Subject Code - AECC-1.

Read the passage given below. Based on your understanding of the passage, answer the questions given below. (5)

1. Social media sites serve as a platform to connect with our friends and relatives. We share our happiness as well as sad moments on social media platforms to let those on our friend list know how we are feeling and what we are doing in life. People like our status updates, and photographs and comments on them to let us how they feel about it all. This is a great way to exist in this busy world. It makes us feel that everyone we love and want to be in touch with, is just a click away. However, social media becomes a problem when we get addicted to it.

2. Many people living in different parts of the world are suffering from social media addiction and are bearing their consequences too. Social media sites such as Facebook and Twitter may help us connect with our distant relatives and long-lost friends, but social media addiction is distancing us from our immediate family and close friends. People addicted to social media are hooked to these platforms for hours. They do not care if their loved ones are staying with them or trying to make a conversation. All they care about is who spotted what on social media and how many people liked or commented on their posts.

3. Social media addicts frequently check updates and notifications on social media platforms. This can be as frequent as twenty-thirty times in an hour. Viewing a new notification, especially one involving their posts gives them a high. Lack of it, on the other hand, can make them feel sad and depressed.

4. All that the social media addicts care about is to maintain an attractive social media profile. They are heavily into checking updates during social events, family gatherings and even during getaways with friends. They hardly enjoy the moment or talk to the people around them. They are either focused on collecting pictures that can be uploaded on their social media accounts or are frantically checking and commenting on the status updates of those on their friend lists.

5. The post updates asking their employees with their family or having fun with their friends while in reality, they do not even interact properly with anyone around. This is the grave reality of social media addicts. Social media addiction is becoming a big problem. It is some how a platform created to help people because it is actually pulling them off from society.

1. What is the negative effect of social media?
(a) connecting with friends.
(b) ignoring family
(c) ignoring friends
(d) making friends

ii. Select the option that corresponds to the following relation below.
Social media sites may help us connect with our distant relatives and long-lost friends but social media addiction is distancing us from our immediate family and close friends.
(a) They walked together to the corner, but then they separated and went.
(b) The study demonstrates the link between poverty and malnutrition.
(c) Joint family connects each member of the family with one another, unlike a nuclear family which makes us apart.
(d) The four men followed them for some distance and then lost them on the hillside.

iv. Select the option that displays what the passage projects with reference to the following.
According to the context of the passage, what does a social media addict care about?
(a) family
(b) children
(c) parents
(d) update about friends

iv. The writer says, "We share our happiness as well as sad moments on social media platforms." Select the reason why a social media user does so.
(a) It makes them popular among their friend zone.
(b) To let those on their friend list know how they are feeling and what they are doing in life.
(c) It makes them happy.
(d) It provides them with healthy sleep patterns.

v. Choose the option that correctly states the two aspects of 'social media', as used in the passage.
1. connects with friends
2. share happiness and sad moments
3. share property
4. share food
(a) 1 and 2
(b) 2 and 3
(c) 3 and 4
(d) 2 and 4
